

Sex & Intimacy for Every Body

Simple tools that can make intimacy more comfortable

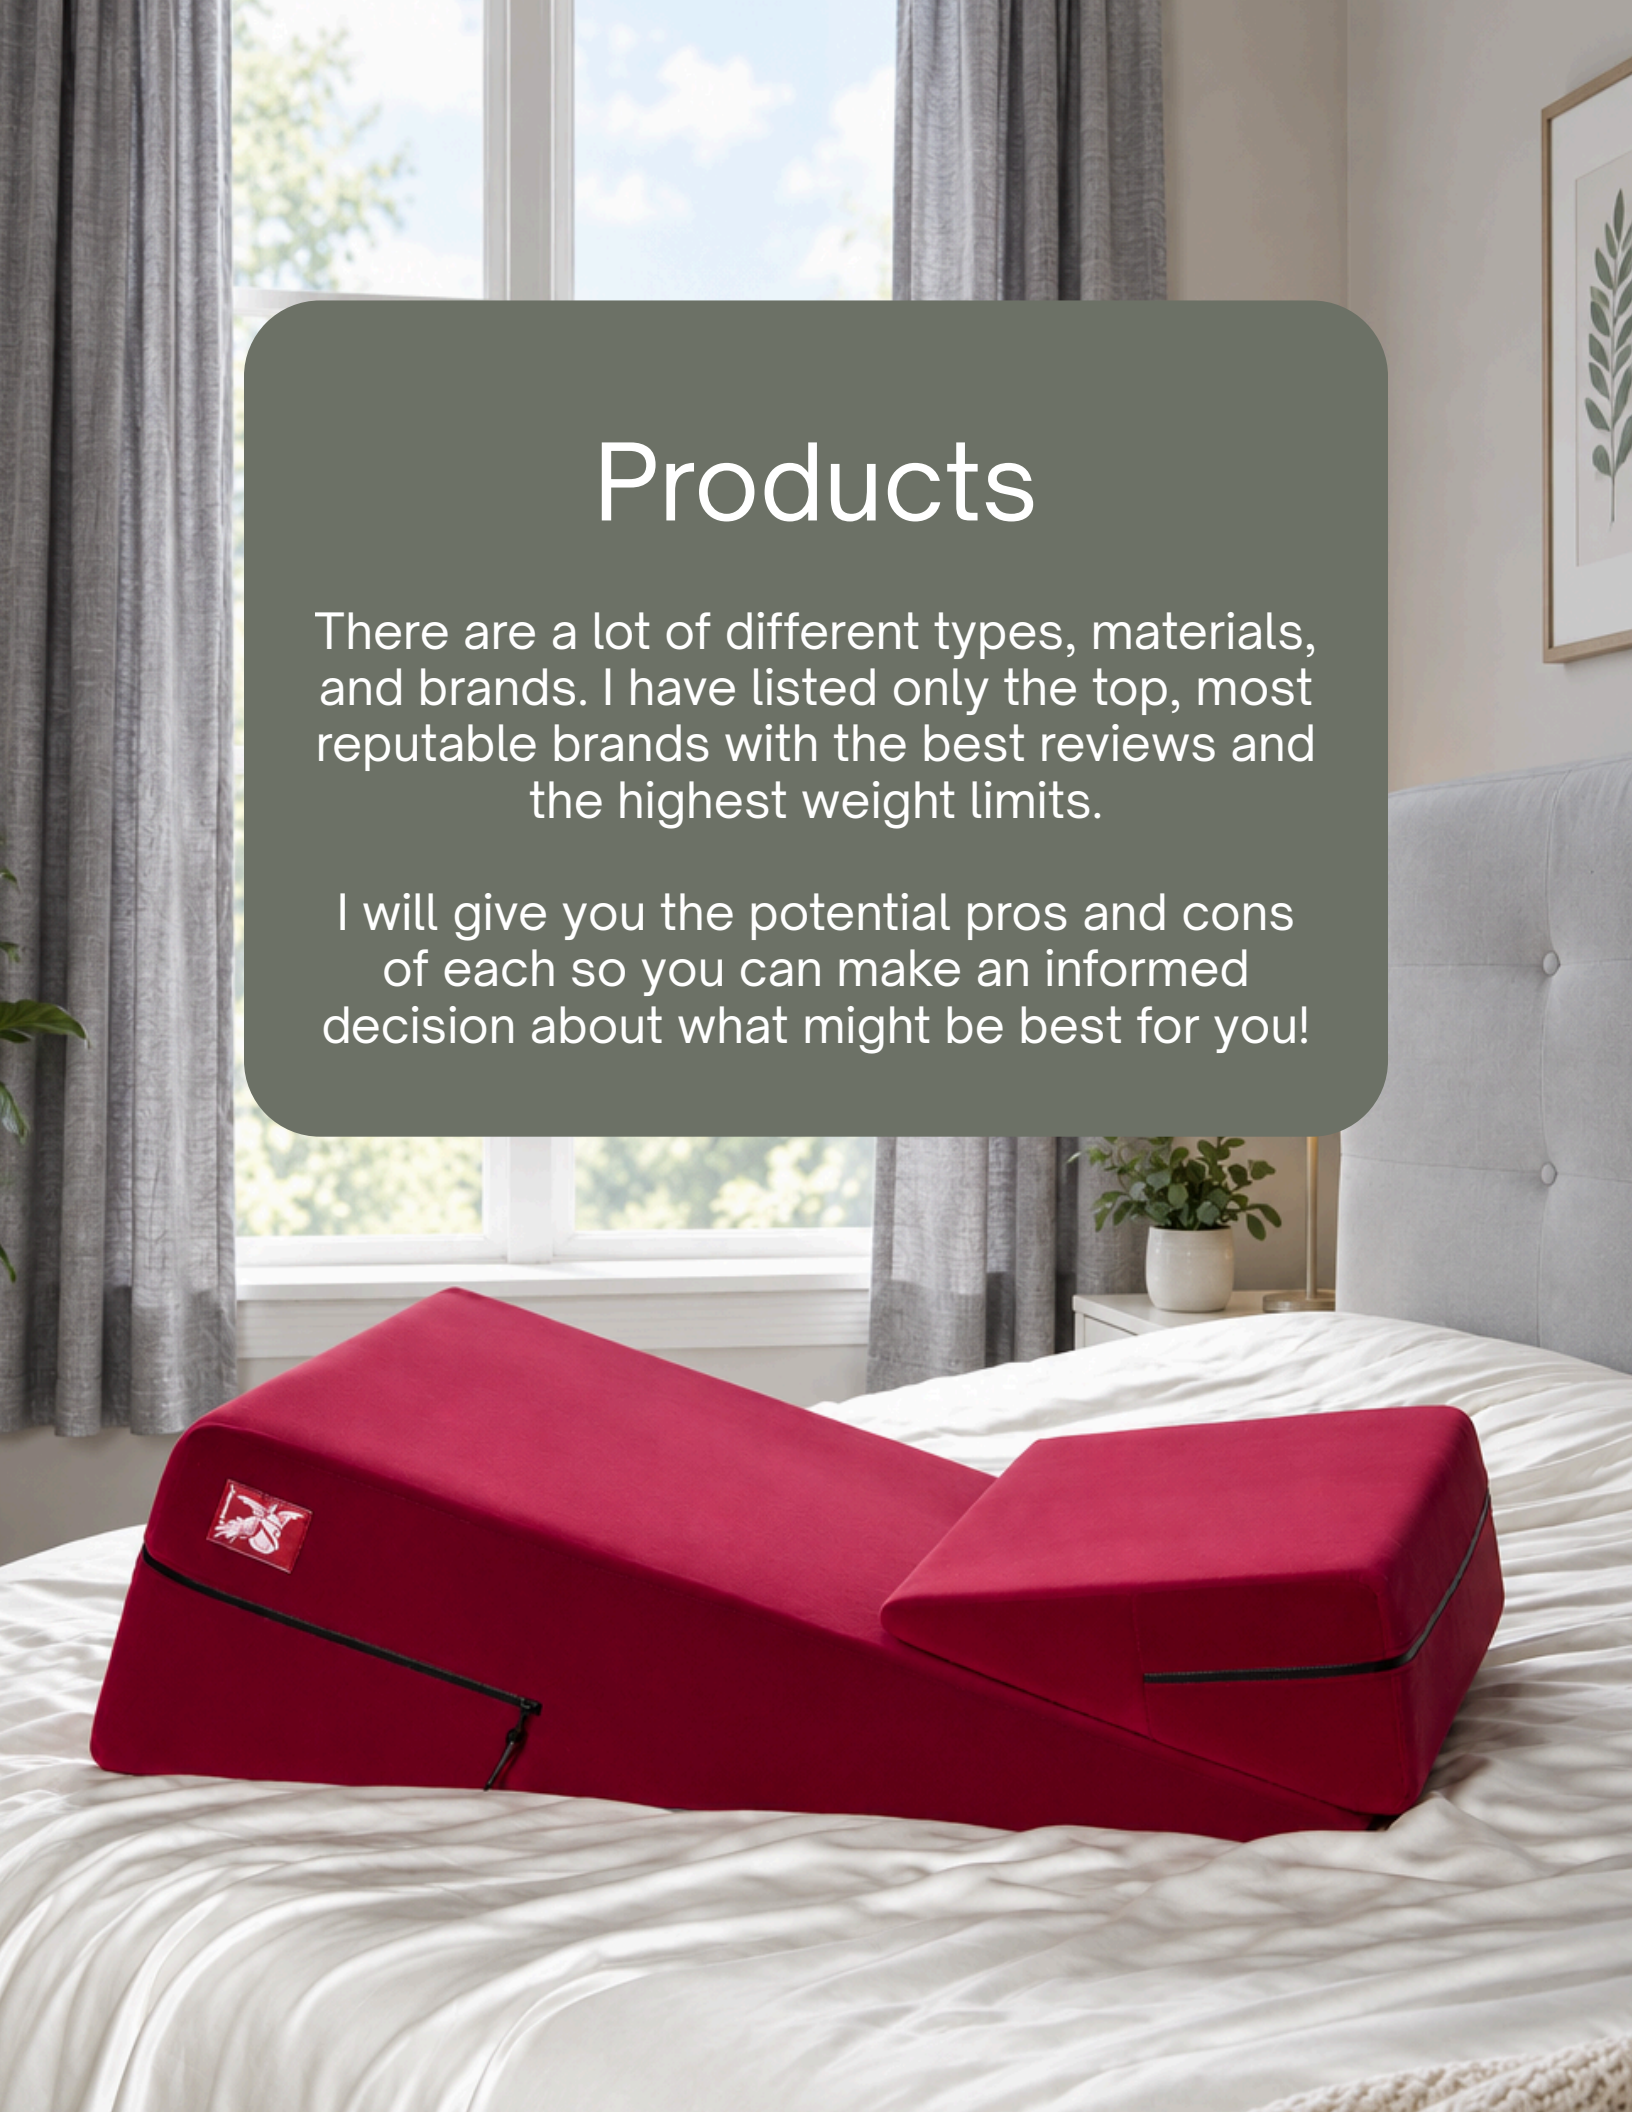

Information about product links

You are more than welcome to find these product links through other sources- I will provide the full name of each product for your convenience.

Personally, I prefer to support local small businesses where I can, which is why most of my links will lead you there.
I also do this because there are no policies that stop places like Amazon, Temu, etc., from reselling used sex products that are returned to them.
That goes for vibrators, pillows, penis extenders, etc.

I have heard of many stories where customers received dirty or used products, or where they were able to return them even when it said “no returns” on Amazon. Whereas stores DO NOT allow for returns and absolutely do not resell used items.

No matter where you get your products, ALWAYS wash them before you use them. For products, always use a toy cleaner. Using dish soap or hand soap can give a woman bacterial vaginosis if it gets in the microfibers.
For a pillow, wash the cover in a washing machine if it's removable, or spray it down with a water/soap/hydrogen peroxide mixture (this one can be dish soap that doesn’t irritate skin) and wash with a washcloth, then air dry.

There are a lot of different types, materials, and brands. I have listed only the top, most reputable brands with the best reviews and the highest weight limits.

I will give you the potential pros and cons of each so you can make an informed decision about what might be best for you!

Some have stands that disassemble, others hook into the ceiling.

I've had clients who easily disguised the ceiling hook by hanging a plant from it or using a fake smoke detector to cover it

Other Helpful Products

- Wearable Grinding Pads: Can be helpful if you struggle holding a vibrator clitorally, and Cock-Rings don't fit well on your partner. Allows for more surface area to be accessed. It can also simply be placed on the bed for you to lie on and rub up against.
- Temperature Devices: If you easily get overheated, something like the We-Vibe temp could be the perfect solution. It works within 30 seconds, and the metal plate turns ice cold. Can be used all over the body for sensation and also includes vibration and a heating setting if desired.
- "Hands Free" Clitoral Stimulation: Again, great if you have trouble holding something or getting it in the right spot. We-Vibe Chorus Pro has a patented hinge design that keeps it held clitorally and vaginally and allows for penetration at the same time. You could also try the Dame Eva if your labia is thick enough (A video from my Instagram @theldssexologist showing how it works can be accessed here).
- Saffron Thigh Sling: Adjustable straps allow for it to be used on thighs or ankles to help with positions where it is difficult to hold legs up or open.
- Waterproof Blankets: They can help make cleanup easier, and the Dame travel throw can help cut down on the heat that can come from bed comforters. They have a hidden waterproof layer in between for easy washing. The liberator versions are softer and bigger, but can potentially add a little heat from the material.
